This company is projected for the purpose of purchasing the freehold coal mines belonging to Messars James and Alexander Brown, of Newcastle, with whom a preliminary agreement has been effected.

These strensive and invaluable coalfields, known as the Minmi Colliery, and situated in the vicinity of Newcastle, New South Wales, comprise an area of 2767 (two thousands even hundred and sixty-seven acres of freehold property, in which are found the richest and most abundant coal deposits known in Australia.

The seam of the colliery at present being worked is identical with the Newcastle Wallsend Company's, on adjoining land, and consists of a stratum of coal of the uniform thickness of about eight feet, which alone is settimated to yield upwards of 22,000,000 tons of screened coal. In addition to this, there are several other seams, one of which is also of eight feet, and another of five feet thickness; both these are known to extend ever nearly the whole of the estate. As, however, it is computed one hundred and forty-six (146) years would be required to exhaust the first seam, supposing the deliveries to be increased, and made at the rate of 3000 (three thousand) tons per week, it is needless to regard those at present.

The quality of the produce of this coal measure, according to the recently received report of the Lords of the Admiralty, is described "for naval purposes as a good coal, about equal to the average of North Country English coals."

tons per week, it is needless to regard these at present. The quality of the produce of this coal measure, according to the recently received report of the Lords of the Admiralty, is described "for naval purposes as a good coal, about equal to the average of North Country English coals."

The colliery is connected with Newcastle and the River Hunter by railway. First, the Mimmi and Hexham Hailway, between six and seven miles long, constructed by the proprietors, under the authority of an Act, and an amended Act of the Legislature of New South Wales, and conferring material privileges and concessions, which railway connects the colliery with the River Hunter at Hexham, about eleven miles above the Newcastle Harbour, at which terminus is situated a village and station area of fifty-five acres, with river frontage. It 125 feet. This pallway, with the village, station, assets of the contract, and the colliery station, assets of the contract, as an apple rolling-stock, weighbridges, workshops, steamengines, machinery, coke oversa, sheds, and overy needful appointment carefully provided and overy needful appointment carefully provided and overy needful appointment carefully provided and conveniently arranged for effectively and profabily working the colliery, and costing, independently of the colliery freehold, upwards of 120,000, forms part of the purchase. Secondly, the Great Northern Railway (Government line), which crosses the Minnel and Hexhant line at about nine miles from Newcastle, affords by means of a junction at this point, facilities for forwarding trains of coal, if desirable, to the Government oranes at Newcastle Wharf, which is effected at the moderate charge, for haulage, of 2d, pet ton per mile.

The village of Minni, which surrounds the workings and shaffs, contains a population of about 1100 souls, who dwell in substantially-built brick and timber cottages, erected on the property, on leases of 21 years, at 30s. per annum per quarter acre. The hotels, of which there are bendes the shore, there have their interests with be greatly enhanced, and that a considerally increased demand for the produce of the mine will thus be secured. They have therefore agreed to dispose of this property to the company at the price of £150,000, but stipulating, however, that one-half of the payment shall be made in the shares of the company, recknoned fully paid up, and agreeing that a portion of the remainder, viz., £45,000, may remain on credit for two and saven years from the lat February next, at an average interest of 6½ per cent. per annum; the balance, £30,000, to be paid in each by coavenient instalments.

In order that no possible disadvantage may arise by the transfer to the company, and also to duly induct the managers to be appointed by the directors, Æssars. James and Alexander Brewn have consented to continue supervision at the mines and at Newcastle for the benefit of the company, free of charge, for a period of six months from the lat february next.

The property will be delivered over to the company on the lat day of February next, free of all liabilities, with a

PROSPECTUS OF THE PREL RIVER QUARTZ MINING COMPANY.

Capital, £12,000.

In 1200 Shares of £10 esob.

The following gentlemen have signified their intention to take shares, and have consented to act as a Provisional Committee in launching the Company.

JAMES DICK 50N, Esq., M.L.A.

J.H. WILLIAMS, Esq.

The object of the proposed company is to work Foley's and other quartz recis on the Feel River Gold-fields.

The claim occupied by the company consists of four hundred yards on the line of Foley's Rect by one hundred yards in width, under lease from the Crown, at the rate of twenty pounds per annum, and 400 feet on the line of the Opcesum Recf, taken up in the usual way. The average thickness of Foley's Recf is about eighteen inches (arclusive of casing) and from its advantageous position may be worked to a great depth by tunnels which would greatly facilitate labour and cheepen the cost of producing quartz.

Quartz can be delivered at the kila at the rate of twelve shiftlings and sixpence per ton, and the average yield may be eafely estimated at one ounce per ton.

The improvements consist of one of King and Howland's twelve stamp crushing machines capable of crushing an average of one hundred tons per week. A new fourteenhorse power engine is now at Morpoth, en route for the mill. This contine is of sufficient power to drive two mills of the above description, or one of King and Howland's mile, with Chilian amalgumstor, and one of Hall's patent pulvetrizers. A water wheel, twenty feet in diameter, by three feet breast, is already crecked, which with a small stream of water could be made available for various analgumsting purposes. The whole are enclosed in a substantial slab and weather-board building, 30 x 20, with blacksmith and carpenter's shope annexed, all under a good shingled cof.

A large stene-built kiln is situated convenient to the mill, with the advantage of suitable ground for other kilns when required, also reservoir, races, &c. There is also hudded tone of quartr now ready for crushing.

The main tunnel starts within fifty yards of, and on a level with the kiln; it is air feet by air feet, and was intended to intercept the reof at about one hundred and fifty feet from its mouth. It is now driven about one hundred feet through very hard blue stone. From this tunnel the reef may be worked on a level of eight hundred feet from the surface.

the surface.

The upper tunnel is also six feet by six, and starts one hundred yards above the main tunnel. It intersected the reef at three hundred feet from its mouth, and at a depth of one hundred and twenty feet from the surface. The entire length of this tunnel now is three hundred and sixty feet. A substantial wooden rail tramway is laid the scatter length for carrying the quarts to the shute, which discharges within one hundred and fifty yards of the kills. The trucks, eight in number, carry each three-quarters of a ton.

The trucks, eight in number, carry each three-quarters of a ton.

Wood is abundant, and water may be had of the Alliance Water Company at the rate of two pounds per week, for a sluice-head of fifteen inches.

The Mint certificate of assay of two lots of quartz, intended to indicate the good and worst samples of the roof, together with a lotter from an entirely disinterested person, may be seen at Meesers. Lennon and Cape's office, and will enable the public to form an approximate certimate of the richness of the quartz, and the pre-bable chances of the Company's success.

The precent proprietors propose to hand over to the company full and entire possession of the claim, tools, machinery, and all other appliances, for the sum of four thousand five hundred pounds, fifteen hundred pounds cash, and three thousand pounds in paid-up shares of this company.

thousand five hundred pounds, fifteen hundred pounds cash, and three thousand pounds in paid-up shares of this company.

And the remaining 900 shares are now offered to the public for allotment on the following terms, viz.—ene pound ten shillings within one month from date thereof, and the remainded of the company, then the holders of the 900 shares now offered to the public shall be entitled to claim the whole profits up to such rate, and the surplus after such payment shall be divided among the reserved shares.

As soon as practicable, after the allotment, a meeting of the Shareholders will be called to elect a Beard of Management, and strange as to the conduct of the Company's business.

THE B. ST REMEDY FOR COLDS, COUGHS, INFLUENZA, MEASLES, FEVER, &c.,—NEWBERY'S DR. JAMES' POWDER is the best and most ranowned remedy, in this changeable climate, for celds, coughs, measles, and inflaenza, which carry off thousands yearly, and are but modified types of fever eaneed by chartucted perspiration. A medicine like NEW-BERY'S DR. JAMES' POWDER is particularly valuable, by promoting a genule perspiration, a single dose causing immediate relief, and in rheumatism, agus, and asthma has been proved most useful. The experience of 16 years has increased its reputation, both with the public and medical profession, who prescribe it largely, while by its case of administration it is unsupasseed as a family medicine. As many spurious imitations are sold, it is necessary to observe that the name of the proprietor, "F. NEW-BERY, No. 45, St. Paul's Churchyard," London, is on each Government Stamp, Packets, 2s. 9d. How fine that cravat round your old neck, John Bro And your vest cost you plenty, I fear; Your trousers are neat, fitting well at the seat, And the make no house in Sydaev could beat, On the morn of this happy New Year.

"Ob, where did you purchase your suit then, John Brown?"
Says the old man..."'Twas not far from here;
'Twas the Volunteer Hall, that shop of renown,
S. Phillips' mart, the best in this town,
That I bought them to last me the year." S. Phillips has fitted you well, then, John Brown; He has made you quite youthful appear; And since it is so at once I will call And buy my new suit at the Volunteer Hall On the morn of this happy New Year.

EILEING FROM BUSINESS.— Expiration of Lease.—86, King-atreet. Important general notice. RICHARD GRIFFITHS begs to inform the numerical patrons of the above establishment, as also the inhabitant of Sydney and adjacent environs, that, in consequence of his retiring from business, it is important, and extensive stock hould be disposed of by Public Eals, and at such reduced prices as must command an immediate clearance. The stock is now replete in every department, with the most fashionable and choice goods for the present season, amounting in value to upwards of OPUNDS, or mprising sifks, shawls, mantles, fancy dresses, and dress materials, printed muslins, sewed muslin goods, ribbons, and fancy goods, hosiery, gloves, haberdashery, shirts, and ties, linens, fannels, blankets, sheetings, quilts, counterpance, prints, calicoes, towellings, ladies' and children's underclothing, baby linen, flowers, feathers, parachutes, straw and crimoline hats and bounets, millimry, and trimmed straw goods, steel and other shirts, &c., &c.

RICHARD GRIFFITHS feels assured, from the extrasive patronage bestowed upon the house for the last ten years by the inhabitants of Sydney, that it is quite unnecessary towaxiol further the first-class character of the goods, or the respectability of the House.

The cetensible purpose of the sale having been already adverted to, it would be invidious to quote prices for any particular articles, or attempt the use of those hackneyed terms so frequently employed in saling off merely for the UPENED on MONDAY. 5th January, 1863.

FORD, BROTHERS' PATENT WASHING HATS.

—Our theory of a hat for a hot climate is that it should be absorbent and ventilating throughout. If it possesses these qualities it must be capable of being washed, otherwise it will be speedily destroyed, or rendered unit for wear; the process of re-habilitating the hat must also be so simple that ordinary laundressree can block and press them. Our rink block makes this easy and certain. The use of these hats subjects the head to the same healthful conditions as other parts of the body—i. e., cotton and flannel are brought into direct contact with the parts covered. The body of the hat consists of five to seven wove materials, of which one is an all-wool flannel, the external material being linen. The luxury to the weaver is such that any person adopting them will not readily be persuaded to wear any other. Their colour is so adapted to all styles of men, that in the summer it is as becoming as black is as other seasons, while their durability is so great that, with ordinary care, they must wear two or three times a long as any other hat made. In view of those desirable qualities, we confidently expect that these hats, with Australians, will become national.

The Sydney Morning Berald.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1863.

Dr. Land's appearance in one of those performances for which he is so celebrated, shews that time and age have not affected his memory that time and age have not affected his memory, nor diminished the vivacity of his spite. His advertisement was in the approved style of playbills of the second order. It did not teach us to expect a minister of religion expounding the principles of morality, or a politician explaining the constitution of his country, or a steward giving up his account; but it was the note of a performer rehearsing an old drama—reproducing under new names old characters—quoting lines which have done duty noon in quoting lines which have done duty upon in-numerable occasions, but which seem almost to have lost their relevance in their accomplish ment. When on such an occasion, and in such an assembly, we hear the Docton repeat-

"For freedom's battle once begun.
Bequeath'd from bleeding sire to son, Tho' baffled oft is ever won;" we begin to ask how long the fight will continue, and when that happy child will be born whose experience is to be crowned by the victory so often foretold. It seems to us that already not only "freedom's battle" has been won, but that its old mercenaries have turned their arms against it, and that above their their arms against it, and that above their drunken orgies we hear the last words of Madame ROLAND, as she mounted the scaffold and turned to the statue of Liberty beside it:—"Oh Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!" Freedom, however, is indeed a glorious possession. It expands the intellect—it nerves the arm—it coments the social fabric—it gives double sweetness to family enjoyments;—it is the best heirloom from fortunate ancestors, and the best inheritance of happy children. But that free-dom is not to be always found in the cause or in the circles of which Dr. Lang is the expe nent or the leader and guide.

Like all the theatrical performances of the Doctor, he is himself the subject of his play.

Like MATHEWS at home, he keeps up the dialogue, and makes his own achievements and resentments so much his topic that we might fancy he stood alone in the world as the admired fancy he stood alone in the world as the admired of all admirers. Let not the Docron, however, confound notoriety with honour, or exult with a puerile joy over the reputation which he infers from the rebuffs and reproaches he incurs. Men can easily make themselves conspicuous. One man burned down a temple that his name might be immortalised; and even the rower of a light product and even the rower of the property of the state of t the power of a King could not deprive him of this prize. But the perpetuity and wide dif-fusion of a name is not always to be envied. names which still come before the public in all kinds of publications, and with all kinds of re-ferences and illustrations; while the judges who tried, and even the victims they sacrificed, are totally forgotten. It is possible for men with a moderate share of intellect and great physica energy to make themselves disagreeable to thousands of people by indefatigable mischief and to command a larger observation than they could possibly attain by the most eminent virtue and useful toil. But this is only like the crackling of thorns under a pot. Dr. Lang is less talked of and considered now because all his puns are punned—all his jokes are joked, and all his satire is spent; because his poetry is stale and his anecdotes are known by the first word.

ionumerable times before. It seems that Dr. Lang had in the last session a little Bill of his own. Like many other bills with which he has been acquainted, it has unfortunately not been discounted. Having calculated upon its proceeds, he is greatly mortified to find his bill would not pass. He cannot practise upon himself, in reference to a Parliamentary Bill, the illusion which is said sometimes to have operated in the case of a gentlemn giving bills of another description—who, handing over a promissory note with the who, handing over a promissory note with the gaiety of a French marquis, said with vivacity, "Thank God, that is settled!" Perhaps this species of gratitude is natural to people who have found relief for three or four months by so simple a process, and who, by giving bills, and rarely paying them, have come to mistake them for cash. The Doctor's Parliamentary bill has not been even of this avail, for after much waiting upon the Ministry and great docility on his part, with the full expectation that a large debt would be converted into a free grant by the complaisance of the Government, still the anticipated day is far distant. The object of the meeting was to set out the qualities of Mr. PIDDINGTON, to whom he has given the very useful office of "Parliamentary detective." Addressing an honest auditory, one would suppose that such a functionary really be popular, but the Doctor fancie such a name would be odious to his audience, and could present to them no image more offensive than that of a detective. These men people. One pops into the midst of a jovial company and says to the most rollicking, "Come, I want you." Another is found in the lobby of Parliament, rummaging among old papers, asking awkward questions, and other-wise disturbing the happy arrangements of men who having served the public on the hustings hope to serve themselves by an exchange of their

We mean to go a little into this Parliamentar bill. Our tranquil times will give an opportunity to pay attention to many a small matter of trifling accounts which might, in the great transactions of troublous times, escape us. We suspect we shall find that the Doctor is at the present moment enjoying a larger income directly from State-aid than any clergyman under a Bishop in the colony of New South Wales. Dr. Lang has associated the Sydney Morning Herald with the Congregational body in a manner which that body would by no means be inclined to admit. We do not profess to represent any religious sect, much less the ex-treme opinions which may sometimes be ascribed to it. We have—at any rate for the last sight years—given our moderate but constant support to every rational movement for the equitable settlement of our ecclesiastical diffi-culties. We are not so enamoured of volun-taryism not to be fully conscious of the defects of its working and the utterly worthless charac-ter of many who are vociferous for its universal bearing upon particular denominations. Ac- | and broad stretches of barren country have had | ordingly we suspect that our opinions upon the subject have been only tolerated by the voluntaries of this city, and we cannot claim, in any sense, to have been the organ of their party. But is Dr. Lang the man to take us to task He continued to receive the direct support of the State as long as it was convenient to himself. When he had made over his salary for some when he had made over his salary for some time, in order that he might release himself from difficulties in England by a document, of course of no value except as it was sustained by his honourable adherence to its stipulations, he came to this colony, and then and there resigned his stipend upon conscientious scruples, stood out before the public as the representative of voluntaryism, and thus simul-taneously disappointed his creditor and obtained from his congregation, in virtue of his sacrifice, new pecuniary support! These things, no doubt, will be laughed at by his adherents, as examples of the Doctor's wonderful clever-ness, but in our opinion it was a piece of wonderful charlatanism, and merited a distinguishing reward over the water.

THOUGH STUART'S diary has not yet been pub lished, we find in the South Australian journals recently to hand some account of the general course of his trip, that serves to expand, and in part to correct, the brief descriptions that had been previously forwarded by telegraph. The correction lies in the fact that STUART'S route was not, as previously indicated, westward of his previous course. He made no attempt to deviate from his fermer tracks, but followed them as far as they would carry him. Further lateral explorations to the right and left of his now beaten track he left for future accomplishment, either by himself or by others. He made straight for his last extreme point, made straight for his last extreme point, which was Newcastle Water, and then commenced at once to attack that scrub which had previously baffled him. This scrub still embarrassed him, but he finally conquered it. On previous occasions he had endeavoured to get through it in a westerly and north-westerly direction, as that was the ahortest cut to the Victoria River, but finding this impracticable, he struck northwards at last, and worked his way through without the difficulty that interposed in the other direction. He found sufficient water in this scrub—a point of great importance as regards the future p of travelling stock. It must have been some where about the 134th meridian of east longitude, along which this route to the north lay.

In latitude 10-10 the scrub ceased, and the party emerged upon what is marked on the map as Arnhem's Land. In latitude 15-50 STUART struck upon an affluent of the river Roper, which, after an antique course displayers itself in the Carlo easterly course, discharges itself into the Gulf of Carpentaria. At this point, STUART was close upon LEICHHARDT'S tracks. Had he simply picked up these tracks and connected the routes he would substantially have achieved the task he had in hand, and have completed all that was wanting to mark a route across the continent from South Australia to the north coast. But he seems to have been determined in no respect to leave his work open to the charge of being unfinished. Though not in good health, he pushed on till he feasted his eyes with the sight of blue water, and planted the British flag on the sea shore. His course to Van Diemen's Gulf across the central table land of Arnheim's Land and down the Adelaide River was nearly parallel with that of LEIGHHARDT. The party returned along their tracks, and the journey back to South Australia occupied seventeen weeks The dryness of the season caused some trouble through the scarcity of water; but the worst part of the journey was within the limits of

This successful trip of STUART's will direct public attention once more to that large penin-sula on the northern coast hitherto known only as Arnhem's land, and which is evidently destined some day to be a separate colony. It had been previously twice traversed—once by LEICHHARDT, who crossed it diagonally from south-east to north-west; and subsequently by South-east to north-west; and subsequently by GREGORY, who passed from west to east along its southern portion, on his journey from the Victoria River to the Gulf of Carpentaria, which was on a wavey course generally to the south of the fifteenth degree of latitude. STUART has now intersected it again by a line drawn westward of LEICHHAEDT'S route, and therefore aveloratory of freely part of the district fore exploratory of a fresh part of the district. The point where he reached the sea was about thirty miles east of Cape Hotham, which promontory is the western termination of Van Die

All three explorers speak highly of the cha All three explorers speak highly of the character of the country they passed through, and their united testimony goes to show that in this part of North Australia, we have a very valuable territory, one not only capable of occupation, out likely to prove very productive.

The scrub which STUART penetrated forms a natural southern boundary to this colony of the future. But even without including the valley of the River Victoria, which would valuey of the later victoria, which would necessarily attach to any colony formed there, Arnhem's Land includes an area quite as large as the colony of Victoria. Washed on three sides by the sea, its indented coast line will afford numerous small harbours, though a minute maritime survey has yet to be made. The centre of the peninsula is a table land, sufficiently elevated to be healthy for European occupation, and probably not at all un-suited for sheep. Lettcharder put the eleva-tion of some hills at 3,800 feet about the level of sea. From this central table land streams flow down in different directions to the coast giving a promise of well watered country, and affording opportunity hereafter by means of dams of storing any quantity of water that may be desirable. The Roper, the Alligator, and the Adelaide are described as fine streams, and others doubtless of the hitherto unexplored watercourses will prove to be of considerable dimensions. The low lands along the ceast will be available only for tropical agriculture. The description given by eriental aspect of the vegetation, gives promise at some future date, when labour and capital have been directed to the soil, of rich results. On the more elevated lands cattle and horses will probably thrive well, and the district i conveniently near to the Indian market.

Arnhem's Land occupies an important pos Arnhem's Land occupies an important posi-tion in respect to the project of an Anglo-Australian line of telegraph. It is the nearest part of Australia to the Dutch Archipelago; and, therefore, somewhere on its coast the submarine cable will ultimately touch. Three years ago, when Mr. Gishorne was here, the proposal to establish an overland telegraphic communication with Port Essington was thought a dream. But now it was thought a cream. But now it is regarded as a coming certainty. Colonisation moves forward rapidly, and would do so still more rapidly if our population increased faster. The Americans have successfully carried a adoption. Our concern in it arises from far land line of telegraph across their continent to wider views and deeper considerations than its California, although a great range of mountains to be traversed. The difficulties in Australia are not greater, and with a population at the terminus, would soon be overco STUART's journey will undoubtedly precipi-tate the occupation of Arnheim's land. How soon stock will be sent there, of course it is im-possible to predict, but many years will probably not el-pae before squatters from some quarter are there. STUART declares his route to be quite practicable for stock. He also points at the possible existence of gold. This of course is only a surmise, as he did not see any. It does not follow because there is quartz there is gold. There are many likely looking places that have turned out no good. No one can say, however, that there is no gold there, and if, when pastorally occupied, stockkeepers or shepherds should stumble across it as they have done elsewhere, that would soon settle the question of colonisation. Gold, which has proved itself the great magnet, would draw diggers to the far north of Australia as rapidly as it has drawn them to the extreme south of New Zealand, or as it has into the frozen recesses of British Columbia.

IN MRMORY OF THE LATE DR. HOUSTON
January let, 1863.
This joyous time is dimmed with many a tear,
And heavy sighs are lingering on the sir
For one is summoned to that realm above,
Whose every word and look was peace and love.

Yes: when they say the words, "Thou art no more,"
For even here on earth thou'st passed away,
Still blest to think—not lost, but gone before,
The first to ack thy rest in endloss day.

Through long long years the tried and constant friend.
Unwearied in thy works of charity,
Not wishing that the world should see, commend,
But, "In that ye have done it to the least,
Ye have done it unto me,"

When from the poor abode thy steps retraced How aft beneath the sufferer's pillow placed Some thoughtful token of thy kindness there Lest any words of thanks should meet thine

How many a burning tear thy hand has dried, And many are the wants thy hand supplied; Thy skill to heal, thy soothing words to bless The widow and the fatherloss, in their distress.

And yet, no words of thine did e'er proclaim, Thy hand stretched forth in aid, to all the eau Not grudgingly, but hind, and freely given— Looking for no reward but that in heaven. We almost date to ask, ask why this blow should come why thou at so early summoned to thy home?

Ob! could no helping hand thy precious life retain,
And let thee for a little while remain!

How many an eye must watch for thee in vain; How many an ear list for thy footstep's tread, Until the orushing thought comes back sgain, That thou art resting with the quiet dead.

Yes, best of friends, they tell me thou art gone, And this alone my anguished soul can scothe, That now in heaven thou it meet thy just reward, For all thy works of mercy—words of love.

God comfort those whom thou hast left to mourn, And help us still with faith to say His will be done That those whom thou hast bled may daily pray, The widow's comforter, the orphan's stay.

May every tongue thy rightsous deeds proclaim,
And bless for ever thy beloved name.
Blest be thy memory, aye blessed without and,

"But I will now state what I would never have done, but for these infamous publications. If I had done so during the examination it might have sold that Mr. Bits, while chief mate under my command, having the responsibility of an entire watch, was so frequently found salesp on duty that I threatened to report him with a view to his dismissal, for I had little confidence in the safety of the weseel while he had charge."

ANLERWINMBLE, hon. secretaries.

D. MORRISON,

Obs. LECTORS of WEST SYDNRY—

GENTLEMEN, "You have lost one lawyer as your representative: I offer you another, essentially the representative of the working classes.

I do not take up political principles as too many do, to suit the ocrasion, I give you my principles of 1850, whereout the occasion, I give you my principles of 1850, whereout best one of my present antagonists more than two to one, and cause within six of beating my successful opponent, namely—

1. No Upper House at all; but if one elective.

2. Free selection before survey.

3. Extension of valleway, &c.

4. Sound system of secular education.

5. State-aid to cease on death or retirement of present incumbents.

incumbents.

6. No syncds, no established church.

7. Immigration of all Chinese, Pagans, and Mahommedans prohibited.

8. Protection and escouragement to native industry.

9. Equalisation and adjustment of rates, taxes, and license fees.

9. Equalisation and adjustment of rates, taxes, and license fees.
10. Abelition and alteration of many obnoxious clauses of the Fublicans' Act.
11. Revision and alteration of oriminal law, and establishment of juvenile refurmatories.

Ricept what have peased into law (and I now publicly state that I prepared the new Publicans' Act without assistance from any one, and handed it to the Honorable the Framier when I lost my seat for the Glebe electorate), I see nothing to change, and but one thing to edd, namely—
12. A wholesome and extensive system of law reform.
These of you who appreciate the independence and integrity which have put me into my present position, will not wender at my strong desire to reform the law, even though I cannot practice it! The two champions of law reform are lately shelved. If I am elected, I will try to do more than they both did! Who will day that, looking at the system of new trials, mis-trials, Burt and Goyder trials, and a few other trials in such vogue within the precincts of the Supreme Court, say reform is more wanted than law reform? Being free and independent of all the Courte by the act of the Judges themselves, I shall, if elected, apply the broom with unsparing hand to leasnes the Auguan stables!

If elected, I will remain and act as your representative sale or on with unsparing name to comme the Augent stables!

If elected, I will remain and act as your representative till the House is dissolved.

I publish no list of supporters this time, because with two very long lists to two very long addresses before the Globo and Balmain election, I lost by a trifling majority; this time I will thance it, upon the support offered, promised, and made good by votes, which, under vote by ballot, is best for both candidate and voters.

I will mest you at different stated periods and places before the election, and explain my views more fully.

Yours sincerely,

370. George-street, Sydney, 26th December, 1861.

WALKCTOMS OF WEST SYDNEY.—VOTE FOR

370. George-street, Sydney, 26th December, 1862.

LECTOMS OF WEST SYDNEY.—VOTE FOR MOFFAT and Law Reform; no more Fire Issurance trials, but Juries and their verdicts to be respected. No more Anderson and Campbell judgments, but a plain common-sense rendering of the law.

No more Burt and Goyder cases.

No more "Vice Admiralty Courta," that incubus on the commercial interests of the colony, where English merchants and captains of ships are taken in and done for Vide the recent case of Captain Nolan and his fine ship the Queen of England at Newcastle. Also, a complete remodelling of the District Courts Act, which is nothing but a delusion and asham—a minisffire edition of the Supreme Court with an equal ratio of its imperfections, mis-trials, eaprices, and enormous law charges; and last, but not lesst, the law administered in its integrity.

These reforms, on which the prosperity of the colony so much depend, can only be carried out by a professional man independent of the world. Such a man is WILLIAM PALMER MOFFAT. He is smarting under an injustice himself—he knows well the remedy, and he has the ability and the indomiliable pluck to carryit out. You have had two professional representatives who have done nothing, try one who is now a non-professional, but capable of accemplishing these much needed but extensive reforms.

AN ELECTOR.

try one who is now a non-professional, but capable of accemplishing these much needed but extensive reforms.

AN ELECTOR.

TO GEOFFREY RAGAR, Esq.—Sin,—The resignation of one of our members (Mr. Windeyer) having occasioned a vacancy for WEST SYDNEY, we request you will consent to be placed in nomination, as we conneive that a gentleman of your financial and general abilities would be useful in Parliament, and we tender you our support accordingly.

[Here follow 200 signatures]

To George Hill, David Jones, A. F. Wilshire, M. Brodsky, B. Mountcastle, J. B. Holdsworth, Esqu., and the other electors signing the shower equisition, GENTLEMEN,—I have much pleasure in complying with your request that I would consent to be placed in nomination for West Sydney.

Since I last addressed a constituency the Land Question and that of State sid have been definitely settled, and there now remains to be considered, as of paramount importance, Public Education and the reconstruction of the Upper House. I am in favour of a non-sectional system of education, and would advocate the reconstruction of the Upper House. In min favour of a non-sectional system of cluestion, and would advocate the reconstruction of the Upper House on the broadest elective basis. I am also of opinion that the present financial system, which substitutes lower for the ordinary revenue derivable from legitimate change is wholly erroneous, and demands an immediate habit be prepared to enter into full explanations when I have the pleasure of meeting you personally both before and the these of nonination.

Should I be elected as your representative I will endeavour to fullil my duties faithfully and consolections.

NOTES OF THE WREK.

FROM 26th December, 1862, to 2nd January, 1863.
The City of Newcostle steamer, during a pleasure trip on the 26th of December, got ashore at Middle Harbour, and was unable to get off for several hours. No damage, however, was sustained.

At the West Manland races on Friday last, the Mailand Purse was won by Dreadnought, and the Ladies Purse by Diana.

At the Woolloomooloo Regatta, on the same day, sixten races came off, much amusement being afforded notwithstanding the unpromising state of the weather.

The members of the Board of Management of the Liverpool Asylum gave the inmates of that establishment—about 246 in number—an excellent and substantial dinner on Christmas-day.

Mrs. Charles Poole gave a literary and musical entertainment at the Temperance Hall on the evening of the 26th. The attendance was not so numerous as might have bren expected.

There was a public young men's breakfast at the Temperance Hall, on the morning of the 25th. The Rev. Dr. Steel occupied the chair.

The Edward River, at Deniliquin, is reported to be very low. The gardens in the neighbourhood of that township are all burnt up.

Some miserable incendiary has destroyed hay and wheat, Sc., on the farm of Mr. R. M. Campbell, of Ann's Vale, to the value of £1000.

A proposal is made by Mr. Carter to stock the Shoalhaven River with fish from the Curowan Creek. The value of horses in the Monaro district is materially depreciated by the scarcity of fodder and grass. The damage caused by the recent flood at Araluen is not of so great an extent as at first supposed.

Two aboriginal prisoners—"Policeman Jemmy" and "Ceckatoo Tommy"—escaped whilst under escort on the road near Tocumwal, on the Upper Murray.

An aged man, named Murdock, fell from a dray

George Crocks, charged with shouting with intent to kill, was committed, on Saturday week, to take his trial for that offence, at the next Court of Quarter Sessions at Bathurst.

Mr. Alderman M'Intosh's friends gave that gentleman a return party on the 26th. The affair came off at the Assembly Rooms of Mr. John Clark.

The inmates of the Sydney Female Hefuge were provided with rosst beef and plum pudding on Christman day. This was done at the expense of Captain Jury, of the Eastern Empire, and Captain Sweet, of the Sarsh Neuman.

There was a fine show of Christman meat at Maitland, as well as in the Sydney markets.

Dr. Houston, assistant-surgeon to the Volunteer Rifles, Sydney Battalion, died after a short illness, on Sunday, the 28th December. He was baried with military honours on Tuesday last.

The members of the Sacred Heart Young Men's Society organized a pic-nic to Rosherville on Boxing Day. The weather turned out wet, and the steamer (the City of Newcastle) went ashore on her return to Sydney. This rendered matters less agreeable than might have been anticipated.

Mr. James Hunter, connected with the firm of Croom and Company, was drowned in Botany Bay on Boxing day. There was no satisfactory evidence to show how it was that he came to fall out of the boat. There was a successful concert at the School of Arts, at Granden, last Monday week.

The foundation stone of the Grafton Hospital was laid, on the 16th December, by the Hon. Charles Kemp, Eq.

Their Henors gave judgment in this case, which was srgued on Wednesday. Certain suits to determine the claim of the litigants to property, had been settled on an arrangement for a particular division of the same. The present suit was a friendly one to obtain the sanction of the Court could, in the present case, give a sanction which would be binding on the infants (one of whom was a married female) after coming of age. The appeal was dismissed, there being, as their Honora found, no precedent for such a suit. Under the circumstances, however, each party was left to pay their own costs.

The PHERDYTEMIAN MAGAZINE.—A new monthly serial, extitled "The Presbyterian Magazine," has made its appearance, edited by the Rev. Dr. Sucel, of Sydney. It is intended to represent the religious interests of Australasian Presbyterians, and to be both a vehicle for the interchange of thought amongest the members of that denomination, and a channel for the communication of reliable ecclesiastical intelligence in connection with that body. In these colonies it is understood that there are no less than 200 organized Presbyterian congregations, the number of persons composing the same being not less than 150,006 souls. Under these circumstances, it has been thought advisable that a denominational magazine should be established, representing the interests of the Presbyterian Churches in these lands. One of the objects which the editor proposes to himself is the promotion of union amongst the different sections of Presbyterianism, and the encouragement of a desire for closer fellowship and more brotherly co-operation. The January number contains practical observations on great Christian truths, a biographical notice of the Rev. D. Sandeman, notes of pactoral life, remarks upon Sunday School teaching, missionary notices, and ecclesiastical incligence as to events occurring in this and the neighbouring colonies. It is published mentally, the subscription being 12s, per annum.

Royal. Victoria Theater.—The extraordinarily clever performance of the Marsh Troupe, and the gorgeous scenery of the Christmas Pentomime, have been the means of crowding the Victoria every evening during the week—the audiences being composed to a great extent of the juveniles, whose delight is testified by the merry acreams of ringing laughter which attend each representation. Based on the story of Jack the Giant-killer, with whose wondrous adventures every youngster is familiar, it is not surprising that these challitions of marriment break forth; and the enjoyment of the juveniles is materially enhanced by the truly splendid scenery which Mr. Wilson has repared to illustrate the ideal home of the Fairy Queer, the rich granaries of the land of plenty, and the realms of dazzling delight—each one of which is sufficient to stamp the reputation of any scenic artist. The comic portion of the entertainment is very well sustained, young George Marsh introducing several good original songs, wherein some telling local hits are made, and the eccentricities of various public celebrities clevrily parodied. The doings of Gardiner, and his terrific encounter with the mine treopers at Wheeogy, are reproduced in the most ludicrous manner—the fameus white horse conveying the victorious brigand off in triumph after the routing of the pursuers. In fact, to be brief, the Victoria pantonime is beyond question the most successful performance of the kind that the Sydney public have been fawoured with for a long period, notwithstanding that it is supported almost exclusively by the Marsh company. In order to suit the convenience of families living at a distance from the city, it will be repeated at an afternoon performance to-day. In addition to the pantonime, soveral good potite comedies have been played during the week—the most of which (as. for instance, the mirth-provoking Toodles, "the two Bonnycasties," "Jehn Pete laughter, by their wonderfully versatile abilities.

LYCEYM THEATRE.—In common with the Victoria, the York-street house has fared enceedingly well during the Christmas holidays. Bach encossive evening has witnessed a full house, and it is only fair to say that in the representation of the pentonime the management has achieved a decided success. In the opyning, quite a galaxy of talent is employed, Miss Gougatheim, of course, being the star of the piece. The scenery, moreover, is very good, while Mr. M. Lean as Harlequin, and Miss Gorcorn as Columbina, leave nothing to be desired by the most ardent lover of dancing. Supplemented as it is on each evening with a sterling farce or comedy, the Lyceum pantonime is likely to have a long and successful run.

DEATH FROM TAKING AMMONIA.—An inquest was held at the Warwick Tavern, Campbell-street, yesterday, on the body of a child named Thomas Moore, aged seventeen menths. The child was playing with other children in one of the rooms, and took from among a number of papers in a cupboard a bottle, in which was a small quantity of spirits of ammonia. He was immediately seized with violent pains, and expired a few minutes afterwards, before any medical man could be in attendance. Verdict—"Died from suffocation, by having taken an overdose of spirits of ammonia accidentally."

SACRED HEART SUNDAY-SCHOOL.—The children attending the Sunday-school of the Sacred Heart church were regaled yesterday sitemenous by their teachers, in the Temperance Hall, Darlinghurst. Nearly four hundred children, after amusing themselves within the enclosure of the Fessale Home during the afterneon, sat down to toa, and feasted sumptuously on cakes, confectionery, fruit, &c., the greater portion of which remained on hand after the tea-party the day previous. The children were addressed by the Kev. Mr. Sheridan and several elergymen present. They then returned to their homes, about seven o'clock, highly pleased with the evening's emusement.

LORONER's INQUEST.—The City Coroner held an adjourned inquest in his office, yesterday, touching the death of a woman named Margaret Saller, aged thirty-three years. It appeared from the evidence that the deceased woman, some years ago, contracted intemperate habits, and in consequence left her husband. After this the wretched woman passed through almost every phase of dissipation and misery, and on Sunday last her husband took her from a wretched hovel, and brought her husband took her from a wretched hovel, and brought as the husband took her from the effects of long continued tached a rider to the verdict, commending the conduct of the husband in receiving his wi

THE NEW YEAR was ushered in by the usual ringing of bells, firing of guns, procession of music, &c. New Year's morning opened with a lovely sky, and showed every appearance of a beautiful day, which expectation was falfilled. There was a great programme. A regards, procession of Oddfellows, grand Volunteer ball, Uddfellows' dinner, ball, foot race, &c. However, the great attraction of the day was the respect to the committee, and having the well-wishes of overyone. got up on a scale never before attempted here, thanks to the energetic committee, and having the well-wishes of every one. With ample funds, offering good prizes, and, above all, magnificent weather, it could not but be a decided success.

The flagship was the Dutch barque H. E. Susan, kindly placed at the disposal of the committee by Captain Maybroom. The vessel was handsomely decorated with flags of various has, and covered in with large awnings, which offered great protection from the sun's rays, the day being very warm, notwithstanding the pleasant north-cast breeze, Booths were erected along the wharf fer the accommodation of visitors, and various other misor arrangements were made—all of which tended to the comfort and amusements of the day. On any general holiday our town is favoured with a large number of visitors. This was the case yesterday, the morning train from Maitiand bringing down upwards of 1350 people, and the afternoon train about 500 mors. This number, combined with our own population, stationed along the whole extent of the wharves, the variety of colours in the dresses, the many flags duttering in the breeze frem the various private buildings and booths; the profusion of bunning displayed from the ships in harbour; the sounds of music and merriment almost from every quarter, coupled with the excitement of the boat racing, was a scene that will long be remembered by many with facilities of the greatest pleasure and happiness.

Shortly after eleven the regatts commenced; Captain D. T. Allan dificult task. The following is an account of the various races:—

First Race.—To start at eleven o'clock; for all commers, pulling a pair of cars, with coxewains in all boats, outriggers excluded. Course From flagship, through the Bind Channel, round the role back moy, back to the flagship—twice round. First prize, 28; second prize, 30.

This was a most amusing event, and caused a considerable amount of fun. The boy was well versed in the management of his dingy, and seemed determined not to be easily caught. Immediately the gun fired for the start, off the little fellow pulled round the flagship, followed by the gig; the boy dedged round the boats just artern of the flagship; an exciting race ensued, both boats kept going round and round; the bowman of the gig apparently getting impatient, made a sudden juzzy across the cluster of boats, in the vain hope of catching the little fellow, but he was too much for him, he daried across to a barque close at hand, where he waited until the gig came close up, he then rounded the vessel, and made another dart back towards the flagship, the gig close at his heels; at last the gig came up with him, the bowman made a grasp, but missed, another moment the gig was far ahead; the boy then made for the boats again, the gig returned and resumed the chase, but with the same result. The boy won, amidst the scalamation of those assembled in and around the flagship.

Thus ended the regatat, one that will be associated with many pleasing recollections in time to come, and one that reflects great credit on the inhabitants of Newcastle.

I must not forget to memion the flag-ship was crowded with pleasure seekers. Dancing was kept up during the day with great spirit. An excellent band was on board, which considerably contributed to the enjoyment and happiness of the day. The arrangements, on the whole, were highly satisfactory, and reflect great credit on the managing committee and their indefatigable secretary.

"Yesterday meraing, about nine o'clock, while we wre at breskfast, the house was shaken by an earthquake. The shock was very smart, and caused the pictures, &c., upon the wall to shake violently. During the preceding night Tongariro seemed very active; the noise could be distinctly heard at a distance of twenty miles (as the crow flies), and large volumes of steam and smoke issued from the crater. The active state continues and is, no doubt, caused by the explosion of gases within the mountain. Although the whole group of mountains is called Tongariro, there are really three distinct mountains, viz., Tongariro, Nga Aruhoe (the volcano), and Ruapehu, which has snow upon it in summer and winter."

THE LANGASHIER RELIEF FUND.—On the evening of Monday, a public meeting was held in the Coarthouse, for the purpose of enabling those interested in the Langashie Relief Fund, to express their disapprobation of the manner in which the money sent from New South Wales had been applied. There was an animated discussion as to whether or not an application should be made to have the amounts retunded. It was ultimately agreed to adopt the first and third resolutions of the public meeting held in Sydney, at the Masonic Hall on the 21st ultimo. The gentlenen who took part in the discussion were among those who, in the first instance, had taken a deep interest in collecting subscriptions in these districts; and it was pleasing to observe, that so far as they were concerned, there was no disposition to relax any efforts it might be found necessary to make on behalf of the suffering operatives of Lancashire. It was considered by all that the unfortunate mistake which the London commission had made, ought not to dry up the strings of charity in these districts.—

Fight River Creek,—On the 25th ultimo this place was visited with a nice shower. It was intensely hot in the morning; and about one o'clock clouds were perceived rising, having an electric appearance. A little while after thunder was heard in the distance. About four p.m. the clouds thickened, and in about an hour the whole sky was covered, and the rain came down in torrents. It continued to fall till late at night. There were a few hailstones of a large size, but not enough to do damage. The weather was drizzly the most part of Friday, and we were afraid the heavy rain was over; but towards evening it again commenced hard and fast. The crops in these parts will be greatly benefited by it. Some few persons think of planning potatoes after this rain; but unless it were to come a succession of showers from now till March, they would not come to anything. Sickness is disappearing. The Discoverer of the Dunstan Gold-fields. Mr. Reilly, the discoverer of the Dunstan gold-fields, was on board the Aldings, inquired on what terms he would remain to prospect on our gold-fields, and, having ascertained this, he communicated by electric telegraph with the Hon. T. D. Chapman, in the hope that the Government would secure the services of Mr. Reilly. The terms were $1000 a year—the engagement to be for six months certain, with two assistants to be paid by the Government, and in case he discovered a payable gold-field, to receive a reward of £3000. The reply was, that the Government had no funds which they could devote to this purpose, but if Mr. Reilly chose to prospect on "his own hook," the Premier had no doubt that in the event of his discovering and causing the development of a payable gold-field, the Legialsture would vote him a liberal reward. Strange to say, Mr. Reilly declined to accept this liberal effer, and at once took leave of Tasmania and its anti-progressive Ministry.—Cornwalt Chronicle.

Disease amonost Horses.—During the last fortnight a fatal disease has shown itself amongst the horse stock in this neighbourhood. We are unaware by what name it is called, but on the animal being seized with it its legs refuse to perform their office, and death usually ensues in the course of twenty-tour hours. The treatment of the disease is by bleeding, when a white liquid, sincost the consistency of jelly, cozes out. It appears that few horses recover from the attack.—

New Year's Day.—The Total Abstinence Society at Canterbury held their annual festival. About 300 persons partook of the good things provided, after which a public meeting for the advocacy of the principle was held in the schoolroem attached to St. Paul's Church. The meeting was addressed by the chairman—Mr. William Miller—who then called upon Mr. J. G. Crouch, who, in an etoquant address, advocated the necessity of legislation in order to complete the overthrow of intemperance. He showed that governments, as tempters to intoxication, are more guilty than those who get drank. Mr. G. Lucas, of the Juvenile Temperance Hall, then gave his testimony of twenty-two year's experience of total abstinence from alcoholic drinks and smoking. Mrs. Baser of the Botany Temperance Tas Gardens, in a short, earnest, and telling address, showed that tipling professing Christiaus were far worse than drunkards, who were more objects of pity than blame. She remarked that the best London porter was made from the filthy water of the Thames, and that the matured blossomed nose of the tipler cost at least £2000. Mr. John Roseby was next called upon, and greatly interested the audience. Mr. Thomas Roseby and William Jones thes interested the audience with that admirable dialogus called "Conscience and a Distiller." Mr. Weaver, late of Melbourne, was the next speaker. He advocated the Maine Law. The meeting then concluded by singing the doxology.

Garibaldi and his Surgeons.—The following letter is another instance of the sympathy of Englishmen for Garibaldi:—"To J. Maerae Moir. Esq., Secretary, Garibaldi Committee, 10, Southampton-street, Strand. Sir.,—Observing by your letter in the Times of this day, that Surgeon Partridge's stay at Spezzia in attendance on General Garibaldi may depend in some measure on the amount subscribed, permit me to atate, that should Surgeon Partridge he pend in some measure on the amount subscribed, permit me to atate, that should Surgeon Partridge he obliged to return, I shall only feel it too great an honour to replace him in attendance on this gallant officer, provided it meets with Mr. Partridge's approval, also the wish of Garibdldi's own surgeon. All expenses I will defray out of my own pocket.—I am, Sir. your obedient humble servant, I. M. Grigor Croft, M.D., late her Majesty's Ceylon Rifles, China and Ceylon, and Staff-Surgeon to her Majesty's Arny Hospitals, retired. Mandarin-villa, St. John's-wood, September 15th, 1862."

September 16th, 1862."

LOVE OF DISTINCTION.—In days of old, the man that burned down a miracle of beauty—i. e., the Temple of Ephesus—protesting, with tears in his eyes, that he had no other way of getting himself a name, has got it in spite of us all. He is broked for a ride down through all history, whether you or I like it or not. Every pocket dictionary knows that Erostratus was that scamp. So of Martin, the man that parboiled or par-rosated York Minster, some twenty years back; that fellow will float down to posterity with the annals of the glorious cathedral; he will Pursue the triumph and partake the gale; whilst the founders and benefactors of the Minster.

whilst the founders and benefactors of the Minator are practically forgotten,—De Quincy.

FTART'S EXPEDITION.

(Press the & A. Reptser.)

Twanz is no doubt as to the complement of this last exploration of Mr. Stuart's. The continuent has been theroughly crossed from south to north, and the union jeak has been planted on one of the extreme points of the cappositio coast.

It appears that the expedition passed along the route previously opened until the furthest point of 1861 was reached, and that that far nothing of manman occurred beyond a slight mecounter with the natives, which took place not the from the northern boundary of fouth Australia. But this smoonter was on slight that no injury was castained on either side, a few shots fired over the head of the aggressors being found continuent to disperse them. There has been very little business doing during the week, and with the exception of the produce sales, the sales by auction have been unimportant. The Christmas holidays have, as was to be expected, materially interfered with the course of trade, and everybody has seemed bent upon enjoying themselves instead of entering into transactions of importance. Now, however, that the new year has commenced, we however, that the new year has commenced, we may anticipate an improvement in business generally, and some fluctuations in our markets, which, during the past fortnight, have remained without any striking alteration.

Tobacco.—The only business of the week was a sale by auction of several hogsheads Virginian strips, packages slightly damaged, at 42d, per lb. In the general trade nothing doing. We take the following from mail summary, of Melbourne Journal of Commerce, per Northam:—

we'll about us, we are in danger of neglecting, we do neglect them.

"We take bliss for right, and use it so, And, only wenting it, see God."

Science has inquired into, and has rigidly anatomised, the theory of earth's reproductive powers. We would not despair of finding those who could demonstrate that the refined particles of the ancient Masstodon went to form bone and muscle for our modern elephant; surmising shrewdly, by the way, that the refue left thereafter was thrown to feed the Sun. We listen earnestly, in pleasant awe, to one whe tells how certain organs in certain plants draw from cortain different earths certain different properties; and thereby determine the colour, the size, the general character of those plants. We wonder at the stupendous intellect that can pierce through space, and teach us with confident proof of a myriad worlds moving in an immeasurable system. These things inform the mind with wondrous understanding; but there are simple ones, who can never have the faintest hope to attain scientific knowledge, who yet ask for more thas these.

These are beings who stand beneath the light of heaven, and bare their reverent brows to an incomprehensible power. They know not Orion; they cannot tell if Saturn is distinguished by moons or by belts: the Pleiades may number fifty for all that they are aware; and they are decidedly of opinion that the moon is larger than any of the stars, the sun larger than that, and the earth largest of all. But they feel the Eternal Truth and fact around them; they feel that those orbs above them, that globe below, are; and they unconaciously worship the Creative Thought. Their very love of Nature is thankfulness to Nature's God. They draw in simple faith, the poet's conclusion, "For Thou art, and, if Thou art, Thou must be good." Such souls will love, with me, to trace some iew examples of that greatest wonder of all, the ever-changing, yet unchangeable, order of creation; for creation, though everiasting, undergoes transformation.

Long years ago there was giv

transformation.

Long years ago there was given to me—then a mere child—a seed. He who gave it to me was a dear friend,—one who had taught me many things in a pleasant way that made me love the teaching dearly. Thus I looked down at the little brown thing in my hand with an expectant wonder. I though it was a stone off an anthill, it was just like one, and I said so.

Thus I looked down at the little brown thing in my hand with an expectant wonder. I thought it was a stone off an anthill, it was just like one, and I said so.

"No, my child, it is a seed."

"A seed!" And the new knowledge made me look closer, until I discerned upon its surface a minute ridginess, and in one place a little spot, lighter than its general character.

"What did you give it me for?" was the next question I asked.

"That you may make it grow."

"Where?"

"In two places at once. In a little flowerpot, and in your heart."

In my heart! How my child-laughter bubbled over at the idea of a flower growing in my heart. But, by my dear friend's directions, I set it in the flowerpot.

I thought it could never be that the little round ball would not be lost when I covered it over with the dark soil, and I went, crying with a vague sadness, to my friend. I should never again see the little ball, I said—for which little ball I had contracted a strong love. "You will not see it again, darling," was the answer; "but I promise that you shall see better than it. Only wait, and put water in the pot every morning."

Well, I waited, it seemed to me a weary long time. Every morning I met with the dash of disappountment, and every morning my sad tears dropped into the flowerpot. Were it net for my friend's premise I should have dug up the seed in despair. At last my "hope deferred" became a hope realised, and I one morning found that two brownish-green thick leaves—cotyledona, my friend called them—had perted the soil, and, joy of joye; upon thescop of one of them was the little seed, or at least the sheal of it.

"Are you giad that you had faith?" my kind teacher asked, but I did not comprehend the question.
"You will not mind that the little shell ahould drop off now, and decay in the soil at the root of your plant?"

Oh, ne! I did not care for the shell now, since I had got that which had been contained within—the off now, and decay in the soil at the root of your plant?

Oh, no! I did not care for the shell now, since I had got that which had been contained within—the living plant. Day by day I watched my nursling, in pleasure when the first fresh leaves made their appearance; in pleasure when it put forth its first tender branch; in great pleasure when I looked upon it at last, a flourishing fair plant. And in the end, the costacy of beholding the development of tiny bud after tiny bud from out the smooth stem, of lifting the leaves to count them in their hiding places, and of seeing them at last open from the easys, and the brilliant petals expand to full beauty. My flower was but a common crimeon balsam, but never did I have a purer or more lasting pleasure than that which I derived from its growth. Yet it did not end without a tear at the decay of my plant, calmed, however, by the remembrance that I had a hundred seeds to sow next spring.

"I shall presch a agreem now to my little gid!"

tear at the decay of my plant, calmed, however, by the remembrance that I had a hundred seeds to sow next spring.

"I shall presch a sermon now to my little girl," my friend said after that, and, sitting on his knee, I listened. "Twas a short sermon then, and, to me, not very eloquent; but afterwards it attained great and earnest meaning. "Like as that lovely plant, with all its gleaming leaves and bright flowers, was hidden in the tiny seed, so God puts the mind and soul—our thinking and eternal part—into the body of a little baby. You cannot see them, or tell of all, the great grand life that they may make, any more than you could see or imagine all those pretty blossoms were shut up in the little brown seed. Then God sends it down to earth to grow, just as you put the seed in the ground. Poor, little, round, seft innocent! who would dream it could grow into a noisy, active, working mas. Its mother has got to trust in God's word that it should do so, just as you trusted in mine that the seed should grow. And perhaps she doesn't want it in her secret heart; perhaps she'd rather keep her clinging baby, or her little prattling boy, still; but, by and bye, when the hunk of childhood falls off, is she grieved that she seed the promise of a flourishing and deep-living manhood? She rejoices more and more when he sees the growing thoughts like clustering leaves; the modest, noble actions, like your briliant flowers. And when he droops at last, does she mourn? Yes, my little girl, she has got to weep bitter tears enough; but the world rejoices, for her son has left many seeds behind him, for its profit.
Life, like the seed-sheath has dropped off him, for his soul had expanded too much to bear any longer the miserable lower life or the incompetent body."

I dis not heed the sermon much in those days, I said. Afterwards it became to me the groundwork of many reveries and self-educations, of form the most solemn.

Later in life I witnessed another scene equally em-said. Afterwards it became to me the groundwork of many reveries and self-educations, of form the most solemn.

Later in life I witnessed another scene equally emblematic of growth—my subject. Now was there and dear friend near me to speak the soft teachings of love: of that friend I had taken my last farewell at the grave-side, leaving him contidently to "the resurrection of the just;" and I had trodden on it years since that time.

I stood now on the point of a rock near South Head, and looked out over the sea. It was calm then, perfectly still and unrippled. But away upon the horizon the spirit of night was rising, wrapped in angry robes of cloud. Above me, in a clear sky, shone the placid moon of twilight. But I stood there, on the old grey rock, until the silent scene was changed. The darkness came down feeling damp and painful; the pale moon seemed to fly through the cloudrack as if to escape from pursuing demons; the wind came mosaing and shrieking across the ocean; the wide expanse of water became tormented into unrest, and lashed itself into foemy, thundering rage. I looked on with rising excitement, but the storm drove me in at last. What was it that we heard at midnight, thunder, or the roar of waves, or the cannon-sounds of distress? The shrisk of the curlew or the wail of women? Alas, we could not be sure. Sleep stole beneath our halt-waked eyelids, and in the morning the storm was gone. Was gone, but not gone its traces. On the rocks, and torn by their cruel caresses, lay a noble vessel dismantied. Every soul that had been within it stood before the judgment seat of God. But the storm was over.

So it is with evil in the human heart. It is net, it cannot be lasting as good; for know we not that the Good One holds in chaim Him from whom evil emants. It comes over the pure see of childhood like that withering storm on the Pacific Ocean; it often coases in the calm of old age; it surely ceases under the iron hand of Death. But meanwhile, oh, what gallant ship, what many gallant ships have been murder

Nevertheless, thank God that the flower grows slowly, invisibly day by day, to perfection at last. Thank God that the storm, in its furious ravages, though it rise with the darkness, shall with the daylight disappear.

- DAY,

 Becking Pleasure under Difficulties at the "Sacre Heart" Picnic, on Boning Day.

 Since Glipin took his famous ride,
 Which furnished the whole world with laughter,
 No sage the experiment tried Save ourselves t'ether day on the water.

 - In Mountcastle's best beaver crowned—You may guess our proud head we did toss!
 Thus rigged, on beart the beat we made our way;
 With lightsome heart, to spend our holiday;
 Ne cloud obscured the sky, and as for rain,
 All prayers for that had long been prayed in vain.
 Nay, who would prove himself that scoptic follow
 To take a greateout or an unbir lis.
 On such occasion, when an outdoor feast
 Had for its guests the parson and the priest?
 Alas! the sunny morn brought on a noon
 That made us "ets; small" to another tune.
 The rain—that long had been our theme for prayer
 New came; at which all present showed their sira.
 Who could but laugh to see the helter-skelter—
 God for us all, but each one for shelter.
 The gloomy noon brought on a sadded night
 That placed the "Old House" in a pretty plight,
 Our patents, peg-tops, paletot, and vest.
 Kid gloves, cureks, and Mountonstif's best
 Were all conglomerated into gine.
 Or perhaps, more like a cold, cold, Iriah stew,
 For long it rain'd not, e'er our garments thin,
 Axposed to view each bone within our skin;
 And save for that protrusion call'd the r——
 We might be taken for a walking pump.
 That when we did reach home, at "peop o' day,"
 You may conclude, there was the "deril to pay !"
 The dog growl'd at the gate, our spit-fire cat
 Mistook us for her prey—a half-drowned rai.
 The occk before his time, began to orow,
 And all the elements of fright and woe,
 Conspired to drive us from our homely door,
 Which we no'er scoght with greater seal before.
 Much more we could relate, but in these dull the riends we meet on see and shore,
 And happily will meet them, when again
 They have a pic-nic in sunahing, or in rais.

 Gordon and Flood, to sell by suction, shortly after arrival, 15 pure merino rams, from the flocks of one of the first breeders in Germany, Gudin F. Blåin, of Chateau Elin sur Seine, who says, "The above rams are the produce of my flook, composed of 1600 head of rams and ewas of the pure electoral Negretti race, imported by ms in 1828," and enumerates no less than twelve medals received for superiority of wool and rams; and also one gold, two silvar, and one broaze medal at the late Universal Exhibition at Battereau Fark.

 These rams were selected by Samuel D. Gordon, Esq.
- These rams were selected by Samuel D. Gordon, Esq., assisted by John Poter, Esq., and accompanying the particulars are the following remarks:—
 "Nos. 11, 104, 110 were four of the meriaco sheep exhibited at Battersea Park, in July last, where there was also contries, and of all descriptions, and Nos. 11 and 110 took the had and 3rd prizes, the sther two having honourable mention. They were shorn at the latter end of July, after the show, and I saw the fleeces of the whole flook, weighing from 13‡ to 15‡ lbs. in grease; with the exception of the three sheep seat out by Mr. Lloyd, there have never such sheep been sent to Australia before.

The above are in the very

HEART OF NEWTOWN, and about the
ONLY UNOCCUPIED SITES
in the neighbourhood. They principally front the main road in the very centre of the BEST BUSINESS POSITION in the suburb, and are therefore extremely valuable as sites for either dwellings or for mercontile purposes.
Newtown is the most populous, and certainly the MOST IMPORTANT SUBURB
of the city, indeed it may be designated PART OF SYDNET,
being simply divided from it by the University Paddocks.
For private residences it is infinitely
SUPERIOR IN ADVANTAGES to other numerous suburbs of the city, as it has constant access to the main thoroughfares of the capital by a fine level road, or by railway, every TEN MINUTES IN THE DAY,
besides being acknowledged to be even superior in respect to salubrity to those localities not so favourably situated in respect of
PROXIMITY OR APPROACH.

to salubity to those localities not so favourably situated in respect of PROXIMITY OR APPROACH.

The terminate to the proposed BOTANY RAILWAY BOTANY RAILWAY has been fixed at the Enkineville Bridge, within a few yards of these allotments, which materially enhances their value as business sites.

THE NRWTOWN MUNICIPALITY is now an accomplished fact, and the great improvements which will at once be commenced will attract an increased population, and also considerably enhance the value of all properties in the locality.

EVERY LOT OFFREED WILL BE SOLD TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER.

TOWN OF BERRIMA.
EXTENSIVE SALR.
CHOICE FRESHOLD PROPERTIES,
TOWN OF BERRIMA,

THE VICTORIA INN THE OLD GOVERNMENT BARRACKS AND STABLES, and A CHOICE UNOCCUPIED ALLOTMENT.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from MAURICE SOLO-MON, Esq., to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sedacy, on MONDAY, 6th JANUARY, at 11

Town Or Berkhila.

LOT 1.—That well-known principal Hostelrie in Berrima,
THE VICTORIA INN,
built of brick on stone foundations, containing bar, 14 roems, collars, kitchens, backhouse, oven, storeroom, &c.; also detached cottage, together with stabling for 24 brees, coachheuse, and exemsive outbuildings, &c.
The inn fronts the market-place, and occupies half an acre of land, being lot 4 of section 2, as per Government plan. The position of this extensive property is the best in Birrima, commanding the best trade in the town, being the stopping place for the mail. It is at pressual leased to Mr. Lewis Levi, but arrangements could be made to give immediate possession, if required.

LOT 2.—Consists of an allotment of land, No. 10, of section 1, town of Berrimas, containing about half-amsers, on which are the T BARRACKS AND OLD GOVERNMENT, consisting of the following premises built of stone:
A building containing 6 rooms and 3 stite rooms above,
a stable, with 6 stalls, a coach-house, &c.

LOT 3.—An allotment of land, No. 2 of section 6, town of Berrimas, containing 2 roots and 3 stite rooms above,
a stable, with 6 stalls, a coach-house, &c.

LOT 3.—An allotment of land, No. 2 of section 6, town of Berrimas on that all the above properties will admit that they occupy the best and most important positions in the town of Berrims. They have a large prospective value, as there cannot be a doubt that on the extension of the Southern line of Rallway (now contracted for) to this locality, Berrima will become a most important town.

The Fitzory Iron Mines, and the inexhaustible coal and other mines in the neighbourhood, will then be developed, and attract the commercial enterprise of the colony, adding considerably to the present population, and enhancing the value of town properties to a large extent.

The instructions of the proprietor are positively to sell on the above day.

The instructions of the propri the above day. Pian on view at the rooms. TO BUTCHERS, SOAP BOILERS, MANUFAC-TURERS, and others.

improved, and are

VERY SUPERIOR DAIRY AND GRAZING

FARMS.

The rapidity with which the first division of this cettes has been disposed of is a tolerable guarantee that the lands now advertised will not be held for fictitious prices, but will be sold without reserve.

The great want of the practical farmer is a cenvenient sized farm, which, it is hoped, the present subdivision will supply. It is rarely, indeed, that an opportunity of selecting from so large an extent of FIRST-CLASS TILLAGE LAND occurs, more particularly within so casy a distance of the metropolis.

The Penrith Terminus is within about half-a-mile of the Frogmore property, so that these farms are within a COUPLE OF HOURS DISTANCE OF THE SYDNEY MARKETS, an advantage which cannot be too highly rated.

This sale also offers an excellent chance for securing sams, they can secure to themselves whatever extent they require. Persons in search of vineyard and orchard lands will find them here with all the advantages of climate neces-sary for their successful culture. LT-LITHOGRAPHS of the property are now ready, and may be had at the ROOMS, Pitt-street, Sydney; or from Mr. JACKSON, surveyor, Penrith. By means of these intending purchasers will have no difficulty in select-ing their lots.
